PORT OF PASCO – WHARF ANALYSIS

REQUEST FOR QUALIFICATIONS

The Port of Pasco seeks a firm or team (hereinafter ‘firm’) to inspect and provide preliminary analysis regarding a wharf located at the Marine Terminal in Pasco, Washington. The wharf was historically used for industrial purposes and the Marine Terminal is a brownfield site that is poised for redevelopment. The Port expects the wharf to be the redevelopments project focal point, but the wharf will require rehabilitation. The qualified firm should be able to provide analysis of the wharf, that includes developing designs, bid documents, cost estimates and permitting. Previous experience on completion of similar projects within the Columbia River system is desired.

The goals of the wharf redevelopment is to provide public access to the water through the use of the existing wharf. The Port contemplates that use to include pedestrian loading, docking of cruise ships and pleasure craft and occasional light vehicle traffic for events. The work contemplated in this Request for Qualifications (RFQ) includes an initial review of the wharf to include survey of the piles, survey of the structural elements above the water line, preliminary design of necessary replacements to fit potential uses, development of a cost estimate and permitting plan. This work could potentially be followed by a second phase to include final design, bid document preparation, permitting and grant support.

Firms submitting a response to the RFQ will be asked at a minimum, to state their qualifications, understanding/experience relating to the project and offer their methodology for meeting the desired outcomes of the project. Firms will be evaluated for qualifications and approach. Successful firms will be interviewed, additional questions may be provided prior to the interview.

BACKGROUND

The Port of Pasco serves as a catalyst for economic development in the Tri-Cities region. The Port operates the Tri-Cities Airport and a portfolio of land and building space. The Port's real estate program is intended to stimulate private investment in the local economy, grow new economic activity, and create employment opportunities.

Pasco is part of a larger regional economy, the Tri-Cities metropolitan area. Pasco has about 73,000 residents. Pasco grew roughly twice as fast as the Tri-Cities Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) during the 1990s and 2000s, and roughly three to five times as fast as the state of Washington during the same period. Over half of Pasco's population is Hispanic/Latino compared to under a third of the Tri-Cities MSA's population and just over a tenth of Washington's population.

Marine Terminal

The Port of Pasco is looking to transform the Marine Terminal into a vibrant economic development opportunity with mixed used development that incorporates light industrial, institutional, commercial, residential, and open space uses.

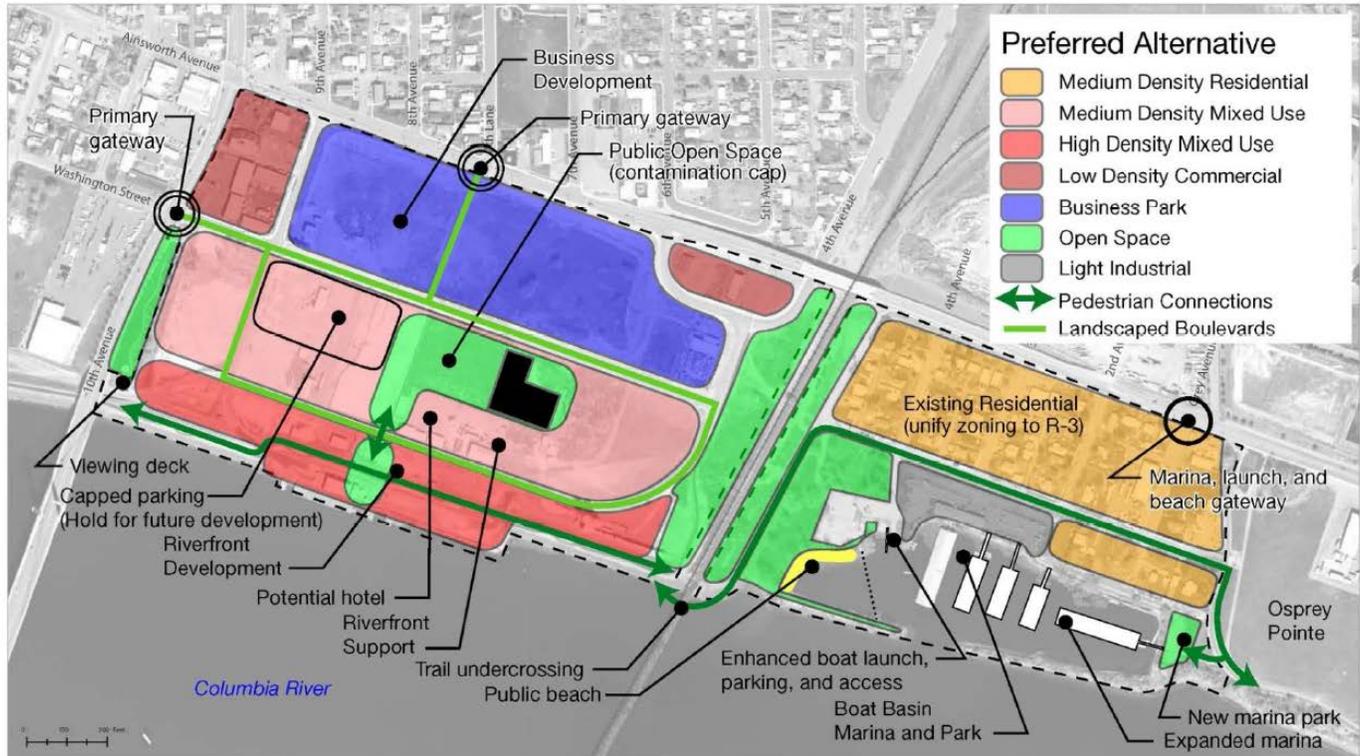

The Cable Bridge property includes 58.8 acres of relatively flat land on the Columbia River in the City of Pasco, Franklin County, Washington. A flood control levee separates the property from the Columbia River, though there is land and one building on the river side of the levee. The majority of the site is vacant, but contains an urban street network with the full suite of utilities.

Historically, the property accommodated a bulk fuel storage and distribution facility which was closed and decommissioned in the 1990s. Environmental remediation actions have been conducted on the property under a Consent Decree executed in 2000. Remediation efforts have been highly effective and cleanup levels have been achieved over the majority of the property. Residual impacts remain in groundwater over an area of approximately 14 acres, and a restrictive covenant limits future uses in that area.

Preferred alternative land use designations.
